Food Matters Devonport

Dr Kiran Ahuja and Sandra Murray along with University of Tasmania nutrition students will be holding a food and nutrition workshop in the Quoiba Room at the paranaple centre Monday, 6 December 2021 10am-midday.

Parents of young children, those who work with vulnerable community members, volunteers / staff from neighbourhood houses, child and family centres, education staff, the childcare sector, those from community groups etc are welcome to attend.

The target focus of this session is awareness around food labelling, information on recommended food groups, information for new parents around nutrition and baby food labelling etc.

We all know how important food and nutrition is in promoting health and wellbeing and this work supports and compliments the physical activity work UTAS have been undertaking over 20 months. It's important to address both elements in order to successfully alleviate the multiple health and wellbeing challenges that plague our communities.

Work for Tasmanian residents

The UTAS Tasmania Project has launched a focused survey on work for Tasmanian residents aged 18 years and over.

They want to understand Tasmanians' experiences and opinions of work during COVID-19 and beyond so they can continue to inform Tasmania's response and recovery. This survey also includes questions to understand what is preventing people from (re)engaging in the workforce since COVID-19 started impacting Tasmania. The findings will be shared with Live and Learn Devonport to inform activities aimed at (re)engaging people in employment.

The survey will take approximately 15 minutes online to complete.

SURVEY LINK: www.surveymonkey.com/r/TTP\_Work

Individuals unable to complete the survey online can call (03) 6226 7542 and leave their name and phone number. A member of our team will be in touch to help them complete the survey.

Wicking Dementia Research and Education Centre's RUN for the ISLAND fundraiser

Wicking Dementia Research and Education Centre's Edward Hill, Jessica Collins, Josh Eastgate and James Brady will be put through their paces as they complete the Tasmanian Trail - from Devonport in the state's North, to Tasmania's southernmost settlement of Dover - in only five days.

Each RUN for the ISLAND runner will complete a 25-kilometre stretch of the Tasmanian Trail each day, with the team stopping in at designated regional population centres to promote health and wellbeing factors recognised at reducing dementia risk.

RUN for the ISLAND is a fundraising initiative designed to support the Wicking Dementia Centre's flagship study The ISLAND Project, a research programme aimed at creating a world-first in reducing incidence of dementia across a whole population.

National Asbestos Awareness Month

National Asbestos Awareness Month - November 2021

Asbestos can be found lurking under floor coverings including carpets, linoleum and vinyl tiles, behind wall and floor tiles, in cement floors, internal and external walls, ceilings and ceiling space (insulation), eaves, garages, roofs, around hot water pipes, fences, home extensions, garages, outdoor toilets, backyard and farm structures, chook sheds and even dog kennels. It could be anywhere!

If undisturbed, well maintained and in a stable, sealed condition, these products are considered unlikely to pose health risks. However, just as electricity can be deadly, asbestos can be equally lethal when invisible fibres are disturbed and inhaled if asbestos is not managed safely during renovations, maintenance, removal or during the demolition of older properties. It also poses serious risks in abandoned buildings and in the environment if it's dumped or has deteriorated due to exposure to the elements.

Whether it's a home, a garage, or a commercial or non-residential property such as an office, shop, church or church hall, childcare or community centre, theatre, workshop, warehouse or even a farm shed; it's vital that property owners and tradies respect the fact that asbestos poses serious health risks.

With any home built or renovated prior to 1990 likely to contain asbestos (1 in every 3), Australians must stop playing renovation roulette and start to respect the invisible dangers of asbestos because it's not worth the risk!

By working together we can continue to encourage property owners, renovators and tradies to visit asbestosawareness.com.au where they'll find user-friendly life-saving information and resources.

Disability Standards for Accessible Public Transport

The Department of Infrastructure, Transport, Regional Development and Communications and the Queensland Department of Transport and Main Roads are leading a process to reform the Transport Standards to ensure they remain efficient and effective, are fit for purpose and meet the current needs of Australian society.

The reform process is split into two stages. Stage 1 identified 16 areas of reform, as well as amendments to references of the Australian Standards, based on consultation with the disability community, governments and the public transport industry.

Learn more here: www.infrastructure.gov.au/infrastructure-transport-vehicles/transport-accessibility/reform-disability-standards-accessible-public-transport-2002

Have your say on Stage 2. Stage 2 of the reform process to reform the Disability Standards for Accessible Public Transport 2002 has identified 54 areas of reform to the across 13 thematic areas. The Department will seek public feedback on whether the proposed reform options will improve public transport accessibility for people with disability and whether they will enhance the public transport experience for all Australians.

Carer Recognition Legislation

The Tasmanian Government is now consulting carers about Carer Recognition Legislation to be introduced in late 2022.

As Tasmania is the last state to have this legislation it is important to have your voice heard!

Carer Recognition legislation will support, value and formally recognise more than 80,000 Tasmanians who provide support to family members and friends as unpaid and informal carers.

There are many ways to get involved, visit the Department of Communities Website to learn

Cat-Borne Diseases and the affects on our wildlife/agriculture

Last newsletter we answered some commonly asked questions about Cat management, you can read them in edition

#39 here: www.devonport.tas.gov.au/live/your-community/community-services/newsletter/

Did you know that cats have a significant impact on wildlife and agriculture in Tasmania?

Not only does a single roaming domestic cat kill an average of 186 animals a year (of which 115 are native), but cat's are also a host to a number of diseases that can harm and kill our wildlife and livestock.

Toxoplasmosis

Toxoplasmosis is an infection caused by a common parasite found throughout the world, it's occurrence is related to cats, as the parasite is only able to sexually reproduce in the body of a cat.

The problems caused by toxoplasmosis for humans are often minor, but can occasionally result in serious health problems. However the disease can be fatal to a

SubscribePast IssuesTranslate ▼

The disease can cause a range of symptoms including fatigue, poor coordination, disorientation, loss of appetite, unnatural daytime activity, blindness, breathing difficulties, fever and miscarriage. Some of these symptoms can kill the host directly, while others make the host more susceptible to predation. The Eastern Barred Bandicoot typically dies within 2-3 weeks of infection.

Toxoplasmosis has also been found in marine mammals (including dolphins and whales) and is thought to enter the marine food chain from cat faeces washed from land through sewerage or stormwater systems, or from cats living near estuaries.

Sarcocystosis

There are many species of sarcocystis (sarco), but the kind that impacts the sheep industry in Tasmania uses the cat as its definitive host.

Sheep eat sarco eggs/spores off pasture or feed, and these develop into cysts in the muscle tissue. While sheep exhibit no clinical signs of sarco, meat with cysts will be condemned. Sheep processors in Tasmania are seeing a significant increase in the number of carcasses coming through with sarco.

Note: There are no drenches or vaccinations available for toxoplasmosis or sarcocystosis in Australia.

The Australian Veterinary Association and all Tasmanian cat management facilities strongly encourage cat owners to keep their cats safe at home for the wellbeing of their cat as well as for the protection of our community and wildlife.

At the September meeting Council endorsed the Cradle Coast Regional Cat Management Strategy (2021-2026), developed in response to the Cat Management Act 2009 and the Tasmanian Cat Management Plan 2017-2022.

The Strategy has been developed by Councils in the region, Cradle Coast Authority (CCA), RSPCA Tasmania, Australian Veterinary Association and the Tasmanian Government (Biosecurity Tasmania and Tasmania Parks and Wildlife Service).
